

12th March 2007

Labtests has had a very busy seven months since signing the contract with the Auckland District Health Boards. We are on track to commence laboratory testing on 1 May and development at the Carbine Road laboratory continues at pace. The state of the art computer system was installed on 29th February and full testing successfully completed by 2nd March. This computer system will enable Labtests to run a quality, efficient service for the Auckland community.

The team at Labtests is focussed on delivering contracted services from 1 July and we look forward to working with the Auckland medical community.
